Bio

An expert in national and international security with over 25 years of experience in the special services. He held management positions at the Office for State Protection, the Internal Security Agency, and the Central Anti-Corruption Bureau.

From 2015 to 2022, he was Deputy Head of the Internal Security Agency (ABW), responsible for, among other things, counterintelligence, state economic security, and the national classified information protection system.

He has been involved in the organization and security coordination of major international events, including the NATO Summit in Warsaw and World Youth Day. He brings unique expertise in identifying and countering threats, as well as manifestations of hybrid warfare — particularly in the context of the newly defined frontline.

Following his public service career, he transitioned to the energy sector, serving as an advisor to the Management Board of PGE Polska Grupa Energetyczna S.A., where he was responsible for the strategic security of energy projects, including offshore wind energy and the construction of a nuclear power plant.

Since 2025, he has been leading the Frontline Foundation — an organization dedicated to strengthening Poland's modern security system, built on transatlantic and European cooperation.
